

Risk Assessment

You can use this risk assessment to monitor the safety in your home. It covers many of the most common safety hazards found in family homes. It is not exhaustive and you might identify other risks that you can add to this list.

Remember to review this checklist regularly to ensure that your safety standards have not slipped and to take into account children's changing needs.

Living, sleeping and play areas - risks to look out for include:

- ❖ Banisters or railings that wobble, or with spaces where children could trap their heads or feet
- ❖ Electrical sockets not covered
- ❖ Cracked, broken, dirty toys or equipment
- ❖ Dangerous items (alcohol, matches, medication, plastic bags etc) accessible to children
- ❖ Open fires and portable heaters with no fire guards
- ❖ Radiators hot enough to burn a child
- ❖ No stair gates if caring for babies or toddlers
- ❖ Toys and other items that don't meet current safety standards
- ❖ Trailing table cloths, blind pulls, curtain cords etc. that could be tripped over
- ❖ Blocked fire exits
- ❖ Slippery rugs and loose carpets
- ❖ Low level glass (e.g. in doors, coffee tables, and tv units) that isn't safety glass
- ❖ Safety catches not fitted on windows
